REGULATED FOOD PRODUCTS

Consumer demand, scientific progress and the economy inspire the development of new food products and drive innovation. If these new foods or food ingredients were not consumed to a significant degree within the EU before May 15, 1997, they may be subject to the Novel Food Regulation (EU) 2015/2283 and require a pre-market authorization. Moreover, food improvement agents (enzymes, additives and flavourings) can only be used for the manufacture of food if they are authorized according to Regulation (EU) 1331/2008.

The authorization processes are complex and demanding. We are here to support you.
